Tenure Track, Assistant Professor Graphic Design

Position
The School of Design in the College of Imaging Arts and Sciences at the Rochester Institute of Technology invites applicants to apply for a tenure track Assistant Professor position to teach in the Graphic Design program. We are seeking candidates that are well-rounded graphic designers and educators that have an expertise in teaching graphic design history and general design history courses. Candidates should be qualified to teach throughout the curriculum.

Primary responsibilities will be teaching graphic design history, typography, and graphic design studio based courses. Responsibilities include teaching three classes each term. Additional components include service to the University and an ongoing commitment to scholarship.

The position begins August 15, 2013.

We are seeking individuals who are committed to contributing to RIT’s core values, honor code, and statement of diversity.

Required Qualifications
- MFA in Graphic Design or a terminal degree in a related field of study (completed by June 2013).
- Minimum of three years professional experience.
- Minimum of two years teaching experience at the university level beyond a teaching assistantship.
- Teaching experience in the history of graphic design. Proficiency in typography, design principles and methodology, graphic design studio based courses, and design history.
- Proficiency in Adobe CS applications.
- Ability to integrate emerging media applications into the Graphic Design curriculum.
- Ability to contribute in meaningful ways to the college's continuing commitment to cultural diversity, pluralism, and individual differences.
